

Background

On October 17, 1885 the Kennedy Library opened at Kennedy Place after Mrs. Helen Fayssoux Kennedy donated property in honor of her late husband, Dr. Lionel Chalmers Kennedy. She also donated 600 books from Dr. Kennedy's personal collection. An additional 300 were donated by Spartanburg residents.

Additional growth called for larger locations in 1905, 1961 and finally in 1997. This last larger building also made possible public access to the Kennedy Room of Local History and the Cleveland Genealogical Collection.

Today the Spartanburg County Public Libraries offer 10 full-service local libraries and a Bookmobile. Each location provides a variety of programming for children, teens and adults and is equipped with meeting room facilities, free internet access, and shelves full with books, magazines, movies, music and more. For those who are not able to come in to a library, Homebound Services delivers books to shut-ins almost every day.
